New information about secret Dulce base to be revealed at Paranormal Symposium

ANGEL FIRE, NM - Compelling new information regarding the existence of a secret military base jointly operated by the U.S. government and extraterrestrials near Dulce, New Mexico will be revealed at the 2010 Paranormal Symposium and Film Festival September 9-12 in Angel Fire, NM. Dulce researchers and investigators Anthony F. Sanchez, Norio Hayakawa, and Dennis Balthaser are scheduled for an exclusive interview and panel discussion with radio host Jerry Pippin at noon on Saturday during the conference. The public is welcome to attend.

In a widely-disseminated August 28 press release, Sanchez reported he tracked down and vetted a reliable source who claims he worked at the Dulce facility. According to Sanchez, the source is a retired Air Force colonel who has proven his claims, which include his assignment to Dulce as part of a special military medical detachment. Sanchez conducted an extensive interview with the colonel, who related events surrounding a classified 1979 incident at Dulce, and revealed what he learned about the history and circumstances surrounding the harrowing 1940 Dulce Discovery event. Sanchez has included the entire interview in his new book, UFO Highway.

In March 2009, a conference debating the existence the Dulce base was widely reported in both UFO and mainstream media. The conference was hosted by Hayakawa, who was also responsible for "outing" many Area 51 activities during the 1990s. Nearly 130 people from as far away as Hawaii and New York attended the conference, including Balthaser and other high-profile UFO and exopolitical experts who presented both pro and con arguments about the rumored base. They were joined by eyewitnesses, law enforcement officers and local residents, all of whom presented credible and convincing testimony.

Rumors about the secret government facility near Dulce began in 1967 after a 29-kiloton nuclear explosive was detonated at a depth of 4222 feet near the Archuleta Mesa on the Jicarilla Apache Indian reservation at Dulce, supposedly to produce underground routes for an estimated 300 trillion cubic feet of natural gas. The venture was known as Project Gasbuggy. However, according to an August 29, 1959 report in Time Magazine, the minor amount of gas released from the explosion was not only too radioactive for use, it was worth less than the cost of the explosion. Since then, reports of cattle mutilations, UFO sightings, and mysterious illnesses in the Dulce area have been widely circulated, along with allegations of nefarious activities in a secret underground military facility at nearby Archuleta Mesa.

The 2010 Symposium and Film Festival at Angel Fire will also include speakers Stanton Friedman, Travis Walton, Derrel Sims, Michael Horn, Chris O'Brien, film producer Paul Davids, and a plethora of other superstar paranormal experts and practitioners. Event details and registration information are available at www.aspefiles.org.

Symposium Q & A

Q:

What do you have when you combine 13 world-class speakers, six talented practitioners, an award-winning Hollywood writer/producer/director, ten outstanding films, a media maven, a historic haunted brothel, a couple of parties, and a tinfoil hat contest?

A:

You have a pretty good idea of what awaits at the 2010 Paranormal Symposium and Film Festival in the magical mountain village of Angel Fire, New Mexico -- September 9-12!

Yes, it's a little out of the way (but so are Roswell, Laughlin, and Aztec). The advantages are plentiful, beginning with scenic travel from wherever you live in the world. You'll find Angel Fire has no stoplights, traffic is nonexistent, wildlife, UFO, spirits and other fortean sightings are common, the sunlight is abundant, the humidity is low, the scenery is breathtaking, and the stars seem close enough to touch! Heckuvadeal!!

Get up close and personal with celebrity paranormal experts Stanton Friedman, John Greenwald, Travis Walton, Marisa Ryan, Derrel Sims, Terra-Raye and the Blooming Bush Women, Michael Horn, Chris O'Brien, Dee Gragg, Derrel Sims, Java Bob Schmalzback, Nancy De Young, Paul Davids, and Antonio Garcez as they explore paranormal contact.

Experience 15-minutes-of-fame with Jerry Pippin, discuss Area 51 and the Giza Pyramids with Master of Ceremonies Dennis Balthaser, have your fortune told, your mind and body healed, your past lives explored, your psyche soothed, and your aura photographed. Screen and vote for the very best in new films featuring paranormal themes, mix and mingle with special guests, tour a haunted saloon, and enjoy some Alien Ale.

Oh, and win a prize or two along the way.

Finalists selected for Sir Arthur Film Festival

ANGEL FIRE, NM --Ten outstanding films have been selected as finalists in five categories at the inaugural Sir Arthur Film Festival, according to event Chairman Paul Davids. The festival, which features films with paranormal themes, is a major element of the 2010 Paranormal Symposium at Angel Fire Resort September 9-12 in Angel Fire, New Mexico. Schedule and activities details are available at www.aspefiles.org.

"We have a smashing lineup of films," said Davids. "I am thrilled to be the founding chairman of this new film festival, which honors my favorite types of films that are so seldom seen by the general public."

Davids, who served in 2008 and 2009 as chairman of the EBE Awards Film Festival at the International UFO Conference, is a noted producer, writer and director. He is well known for controversial films which often include paranormal themes, including the 1994 Golden Globe nominee "Roswell." Other Davids films popular with paranormal buffs include "Timothy Leary's Dead," "Starry Night," "The Artist and the Shaman," and "The Sci-Fi Boys," which won the Saturn Award as Best DVD of 2006. Davids is currently in production on a feature documentary called "Curtain Calls: The Life After Death Project," and he recently completed a new feature film, "Before We Say Goodbye."

Regarding the unique festival name, Davids said, "Everyone knows Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, who created the character Sherlock Holmes. What many don't know is that Doyle was a spiritualist who attended séances and believed in contact with the Other Side. The festival is named in his honor." Davids continued, "So if what to do with those four days in September is a mystery to you, let Sherlock Holmes be your detective - because he's already solved the case and knows you have to go to Angel Fire and be part of this absolutely incredible film festival and conference. We hope the spirit of Sir Arthur will check in on us and that he'll give us a big smile beneath that thick mustache of his."

Competition categories include Best Animated Film, Best Historical Film, Best Film Under 60 Minutes, Best Film Over 60 minutes, and Best Anomalous Footage. Finalists selected for screening at the event include:

Coyote Tales: Mystery's Night

Producer: Frederick Aragon

Director: Frederick Aragon

A short animation which tells the tale of Coyote, who has never been able to make someone love him - and his journey to change that.

7 Weeks

Producers: Caroline Thompson and Steve Nicolaides

Director: Evan York

An artist finds his mind - the wellspring for all he creates - can no longer be trusted with reality.

Bloodline

Producer: Rene Barnett

Director: Bruce Burgess

What if the greatest story ever told was a lie? Discoveries revealed exclusively in Bloodline are sure to re-ignite the controversy over whether Jesus Christ married Mary Magdalene and had children.

The Day Before Disclosure

Producer: Terje Toftenes

Director: Terje Toftenes

A film documenting the growing awareness and the build up to what can potentially be the single most important event in human history - the day the UFO and ET presence becomes a world wide accepted reality. This is the story of the witnesses who were laughed at, the researchers and reporters who weren't believed and the governmental and military personnel who were sworn to silence.

The Portal - The Hessdalen Phenomenon

Producer: Terje Toftenes

Director: Terje Toftenes

For generations, mysterious lights and objects have been observed in the remote valley of Hessdalen, Norway. The phenomenon has been reported as large as a house or as small as a basketball. Both Norwegian and international researchers are involved in trying to reveal the true nature of the phenomenon.

Utopia on the Rio Grande

Producer: Robin Riley

Director: Robin Riley

In the 19th century a group of spiritual pilgrims were inspired to create an idealistic community in the New Mexico Territory. This is the story of how that colony came into being, flourished, and was absorbed back into the desert wilderness.

What on Earth? Inside the

Crop Circle Mystery

Producer: Suzanne Taylor

Director: Suzanne Taylor

Shot in England, this film features "croppies" who've been profoundly touched by the circles.

It deals with how ascertaining the circles come from elsewhere would help us think as a planet which would give us our best chance to solve global problems.

Rose

Producer: Michael Silberman

Director: Hoku Uchiyama

Rose is a fictional rural American tale about a little boy's friendship with the ghost of a murdered girl who haunts the woods near his house.

Cosmic Granny

Producer: Jody McNicholas

Director: Jody McNicholas

This is a playful film with a delightful message of inclusivity and fearlessness. Over homemade

jam our hearts and minds open to the naturalness of our interconnectedness. We are not alone,

but part of a huge multi-dimensional family that extends way beyond our little planet.

The Silent Revolution of Truth

Producers: Michael Horn and Jack Gerlack

Director: Jack Gerlack

In 1958, Billy Meier predicted the Iraq Wars, AIDS, global warming and terrorism; and .
. . . he'd already been to the moon. Is it the biggest hoax . . . or the most important story in human history? Now you can decide for yourself! Now, for the first time, you'll see and hear Billy Meier's life story in his own words!
